Slips and Trips

Injuries arising from slips and trips are common, around a quarter of all the claims we deal with every year relate to slipping and tripping.

These accidents can happen anywhere. They can cause temporary or permanent injury, as well as result in financial loss. If you have had an accident which was not your fault, our expert Personal Injury team can help. You may have slipped or tripped in a public place, on someone else's property or at work.

Common causes of these accidents include spillages that result in a slippery surface or wet floor, and uneven or badly maintained walkways and paths.

Injuries at work

If the accident happened at work, you may be entitled to compensation from your employer. Your employer may be liable in many different circumstances.

For example, you may have tripped over uneven surface in the workplace, or slipped on a wet floor. Accidents can occur because the employer has failed to light an area adequately or neglected to put adequate safety measures in place, e.g. handrails.

Injuries on someone else's property or in a public place

If your accident has happened in a public building, such as a bank or supermarket, you may be able to claim for the failure to provide a safe environment. If you slipped or tripped on a public footpath or road, you may be eligible for compensation from your local authority for their failure to properly maintain the highways.
